

A VISIT IN DENMARK AND POLAND

We loved Gdansk and its narrow buildings in the harbour. But most of all, we loved being together one more time. Every mobility is something we hardly wait for to be realized, and each time it is proved that our partnership is a wonderful union of different countries and people.

own language. The educational system is similar to the Slovenian one, so is the school itself.

The excursion to Szymbark was an exquisite experience. The upside-down house made us feel strange and, above all, dizzy....

See you in November, in Italy and Slovenia. We will do our best!

Copenhagen surprised us all. The capital city, where everything is at hand and all major sights can be seen in quite a short time. It is the city of cyclists and green parks where people relax and enjoy themselves.

On our sightseeing tour with Elsbeth, Björn and Nikolaj, we passed a make-a-wish tree in one of the parks. Although we did not have a dummy (all the wishes are supposed to be attached to one), we made an important wish—may all nine countries involved in the project be as one for a long time.

The visit at the school was something to remember as well. The system obviously puts handcraft and different skills on the first place. We liked classes for wood or metal work, sawing classroom or the kitchen, music classroom. It was seen that children are educated for real life. Not to mention that everyone speaks English almost fluently.

Our arrival to Wejherowo was a new experience. A small, cosy town with old churches and a famous Calvary with many chapels enraptured us all.

In Copenhagen, Mojca and I experienced a very calm and, in our opinion, too disciplined classroom of 10-year-old children. The situation was different in Luzino where the teenagers of 13 were open and talkative, eager to find lots of new things about us and Slovenia. Just like we realized that we spent three days not just in Poland but in the country of Kashubia with its
